

Snapshot 1

Between now and June next year, Lost and Found will arrive in convenient snapshots every six weeks. With two short sections, an 'eight of the best' visual diary and a bound-to-surprise giveaway, each snapshot will update you on Melbourne's latest creative spaces, projects and events.

Arts

Melbourne International Arts Festival

Allergic to art? Then stock up on nasal spray and mark yourself an exclusion zone around the city because the 2008 Melbourne International Arts Festival is rolling in. Artistic Director Kristy Edmunds toasts her final year in the job both literally (go on, have a beer with her) and metaphorically, with a mind-blowing program of world premieres, music legends and contemporary art stars. Once you get over the fact that Patti Smith is coming, book tickets to Philip Glass and Chunky Move, and watch out for works by Matthew Sleeth, Lone Twin and Chris Doyle, ready to pounce from fountains, walls and street corners. Don't say we didn't warn you.

9–25 October, the Arts Centre and citywide, tel: 03 9662 4242.

Events

Urban Screens Melbourne 08

When you saw Minority Report, you were probably thinking one of two things: 'Old Maverick is really looking his age these days,' or 'Imagine when there are that many digital screens in the city, talking to people as they walk past!' Urban Screens Melbourne 08 is the third in a series of worldwide events exploring the phenomenon of digital screens in urban space. Hosted by Fed Square, the event promises a giant, outdoor multimedia program on the big screen including films, incredible interactive projects, international joint broadcasting events and more. The future is here! And (as long as Tom Cruise doesn't turn up) it's not as scary as we thought.

Outdoor Multimedia Program, 3–8 October. Fed Square, Flinders Street, Melbourne, tel: 03 9655 1900.

Win

When Patti Smith first moved to New York, in 1967, she vowed she would 'kick poetry in the ass.' She kicked plenty more than that, becoming a visual artist and rock 'n' roll legend. We have a double pass to give away for Patti Smith in Concert on Sunday 12 October, part of the 2008 Melbourne International Arts Festival. For your chance to win tickets and a copy of Patti Smith & Kevin Shields: The Coral Sea, send an email with the subject line, 'Patti kicked it good!'

Hamer Hall, the Arts Centre, 100 St Kilda Road, Melbourne, tel: 03 9281 8000.

Eight of the best... rooftop drinking spots

Adelphi Pool, Palmz at The Carlton, Red Hummingbird, Rooftop Bar Siglo, Sarti, Madame Brussels, Workshop

